PDF READING EDITION

Executive Summary

This reading edition condenses the native Excel master into a portable, printable report. Every counted record contains at least one of the exact strings “Zazie Productions” or “Zazie Kanwar-Torge.” Unrelated Zazies and near-match-only pages are excluded.

Measure	Count	Meaning
Verified URL-level records	133	All records in the Master Index
Priority A	23	Strongest external press-kit and institutional material
Priority B	26	Useful supporting coverage and industry records
Priority C	84	Profiles, catalogs, press-release context and discography material
Unverified leads	15	Preserved in Excel but excluded from verified totals

Important: inclusion proves that an exact-name public media record exists. It does not independently validate every promotional, biographical, award, review, or profile claim made by the source. The Excel edition labels source relationships so independent editorial is not confused with profiles or self-issued releases.

Inclusion standard

Counted records must render or be publicly indexed with at least one exact target name. A handle such as “ZazieProductions” without a space is insufficient by itself. Pages that contain only spelling variants, a different company such as Zazie Films, the French singer Zazie, or similarly named producers are excluded.

Record unit

Most rows represent one distinct URL-level media item. Separate editions or syndications may have separate rows. Music appearances are one row per compilation listing currently displayed on the exact-name Discogs artist index.

Verification language

“Direct page verified” means the live page was read. “Search-index verified” means the result index visibly preserved the exact name, often where a client-rendered or restricted page prevented full extraction. Unresolved claims remain leads in the Excel workbook and are not counted here.

Best-effort boundary

No public-web search can prove absolute completeness across deleted, private, paywalled, print-only, social-only, unindexed, or region-restricted media. This edition is an extensive, reproducible census through the date on the cover.

Press & Editorial

25 verified URL-level records. Links are clickable; use the Excel edition for full evidence notes, filtering, secondary URLs and source-relationship fields.
